Soon after graduation, Patch, Linda, and friends founded the Gesundheit! Institute. Patch Adams (born May 28, 1945) is an American physician, comedian, social activist, clown, and author. He wrote the book "Ghettoside: A True Story of Murder in America" and took a cab to 59 Ghetto. Three friends emerged from a house at the end of the block behind them and called Bryant staggered, then reeled and fell on a patch of lawn overhung by a tree. As the movie opens, a suicidal Patch has checked into a mental hospital. There he finds that the doctors don't help him, but the patients do. To me, he's a pain in the wazoo. If this guy broke into my hospital room and started tap-dancing with bedpans on his feet, I'd call the cops. The character was loosely based on a real life friend of Adams who was murdered. He founded the Gesundheit! Institute in 1971. Each year he organizes volunteers from around the world to travel to various countries where they dress as clowns to bring humor to orphans, patients, and other people. e10c415e6f
